Hongkone, June 20th, 1893. the Amoy Consular report for 1892, received by the last mail, there are some remarks on the Bombay yarn trads which phasess a special suggestiveness in view of the apprehended tamporing with the Indian currency. The Indian yarn trade, Mr. For-REST tells us; has again taken a stride forward of over ten per cent., " showing what a "splendid field the depreciation of silver and "the uncertainty of exchange have taken "from Lancashire and gifted to Bombay." No-doubt, the Consul goes on to say, cheaper labour and closer proximity have contributed to the substitution of Bomwas first in the field and with so conservaopinion the change is unquestionably due inore to the action of importers, who feared the risk thrown on them by the depreciation of silver, than to the direct competition of cheaper labour; and he states that he two years, has been informed that inquiries have saveral times been made for English yarns but that in the present state of the market importers dare not keep them in stock. When a fictitious value has been given to the rupce importers of Indian yarn will be in much the same position. They will be subjected to loss by constant fluctuations of exincurred with prudence, and as English varu has been displaced by Indian so will Indua be displaced by Japanese and Chinese spinnings. on to the selling price consumers will naturally begin to look to other sources for the supply of their requirements. And they have not very far to look. The spinning industry is rapidly growing in Japan and a commencement has already been made in China itself. The ourrency policy General. of the leading European nations and that A. S. WATSON & CO., LIMITED. now proposed for India is calculated to make Eastern Asia supply its own requirements in the way of manufactures. This is perhaps not a result that we in Hongkong, looking to our own interests, have any reason to regret, for though it may require some readjustment of present commercial arrangements it cannot fail to bring profit to the colony as a whole. But what would prove of much greater advantage to the Colonial Secretary he is excused from atus would be a system of universal free trade. The policy of artificially appreciating gold by discrediting silver is one of the most vicious forms of protection ever in vented, and is calculated, not to bring sup posed benefit to a whole country, but solel to a particular class, the capitalists.

DOCTRINES. The English translation of the book bearing the above title has fong been out of print and popies of it are now rarely met with. It has been suggested to us that we should repaint the motion given below, as showing the point of view from which educated Chinese, regard the introduction of Christianity. It is a reprint from a work by Yang Kuang huse, a Mahomme lun who held high office in the Astronomical Board in the seventeenth century and was moved panthers and leopards, is giving a series of Thermon, I'm and Thorin. But it is said in Hail's introduction of common-sense, as he will find his time much that the Buildhist and Tauist religious have more profitably amployed in translating all manifestly no suitable apprehension of the funds. English articles (as they ought to be translated) mental relations subsisting between the emperor on the Mekong question, comparing their afterand his officers, and between father and son; and wards with the inexhautible series of empty that even Confucianism is not without fault in this regard. Oh, what talk! what talk! Bud-"dhists and Tauists in their temples worship the tablet to the emperor. This is sufficient evidence that they understand their relations to him. It is also a remark of the Buddhists that " To worship the whole company of Buddhas is not to be compared in importance with reverencing your two parents." This is cert luly recognising filial duties. Moreover our Confucianism refers to "the arrangements of Heaven," "the order of Heaven," "the relations of Heaven," and "the nature conferred by Heaven," as its vory foundation. But Jesus, the Lord of Heaven, in consequence of breaking the laws of his country was crucified. This is evidence of his ignorance of his duties to his sovereign. His mother's name was Mary and his father's Joseph, and yet it is said that he had no father! His followers are not allowed IN NEW YORK. to worship the tablets of their angestors; this shows that they do not understand the daties which children owe their parents. The writer ON BOMBAY.lian is unreasonable and forlish to the extreme of saying that even we Consucianists are faulty. as regards the relations between emperor and officers, and parents and children. Why does he not point out which one of our sages he refers to, that we may disprove his slander? If he cannot make any such specification, why does he give utterance to such false charges, and thus revile the religion of Cheo and Confucius?

The error of the doctrine of Yang, and Muh. was only that they charged us with giving too empire from being without fathers and an amas we have no one capable of doing this work trines, and rejecting those of Confucius and Fenwick & Co. Goo. Sole to give aufficient time to it.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT. Milk and coffee, two articles of the first necessity for the European community, are sold here at exorbitant prices, thanks to the new Cusiporeasing by $3 their charges for monthly board, while one of our tonsorial artists, not to be behind in the march, is also increasing his fees for hairentting and shaving. You need not laugh at this; our artist has pets to nurse and, besides, as a matter of patriotism he uses French rapore (manufactured in Birmingham.)

The pugilistic maristrate whose exhibition in open court I reported in my last has to andergo two months' suspension. It is said the magistrate complains of the penalty inflicted and has sent in his resignation, intending to join the bar and practise as an advocate in the very court he so much disgraced.

I have to record the death of the chief engineer of the Metapedia by drowning in the river on Wednesday last, whilst returning on board. It is presumed he missed his footing when stepping on board. The body was recovered yesterday morning and taken to the morgue.
